Click the box for each day(s) you wish to submit hours for approval and then click the “submit” button at the bottom to electronically send those hours to your supervisor. Those days will then turn orange to indicate the hours have successfully been recorded.

Please note, once you have submitted hours, you will not be able to change them. If you have made an error, contact a representative at your agency. Your supervisor will have the ability to reject these hours and you will have the opportunity to re-enter the time. If this is the case, you will receive an email notification that time has been rejected.

If your supervisor approves or rejects time, the next time you log into SelfServe, you will see a change to your calendar:
